STUDY A UNIVERSITY COURSE AT COLLEGE

With courses easily accessible at your local college, studying a university-level qualification could change your life and kick-start your dream career.

The University of South Wales works with partner colleges, so you can study our courses at college campuses local to you.

These include Bridgend College, Cardiff and Vale College, Coleg Gwent, The College Merthyr Tydfil and Coleg y Cymoedd.

This means you'll be a University of South Wales student and graduate with a university qualification, but study in a location convenient for you.

Whether you want to continue your studies or return to education, there are plenty of options available. For example, if you have work or family commitments, some courses offer the opportunity to study full or part-time. If you don't quite have the right qualifications for a full Honours degree, there will still be opportunities for you at your local college.

There is a range of qualifications on offer, including Foundation Degrees, HNCs and HNDs – take a look at our course list on pages 20 and 21.

Welsh students still benefit from financial support, so gaining a qualification may cost less than you think. Come along to an Open Event at your local college to chat about the course, and see the campuses and facilities for yourself – the events are listed on page 4.

STUDY A COURSE AT COLLEGE

If you want an exciting career doing something you love, study a university course with us. There are endless benefits of choosing to study from the comfort of your local college.

1 Courses on your doorstep

Imagine the time and money you could save by studying locally. You could continue working, juggle family life, care for a loved one, play sport for your local team or stay closer to your friends. Take a look at our course list on pages 20 and 21.

2 Friendly and supportive

Colleges cater for learners of all ages, so whether you're returning to learning as a mature student, or continuing from school or college, you'll find a welcoming environment. Class sizes tend to be smaller with specialist support on offer. You'll even have a University Link Officer and access to talks from our Progression Assistants.

3 Accessible university qualifications

If you don't have the entry requirements to go straight on to a full Honours degree, you could study an HNC, HND or Foundation Degree at college. You could then progress to a full degree to gain an even higher-level qualification, either at college or at the University of South Wales. Our partner colleges also offer Access to Higher Education courses if you don't have formal qualifications. Find out about the different levels of study on page 15.

4 Impressive facilities and resources

Many of our partner colleges have benefitted from huge investment over the past few years, and they boast impressive facilities and teaching spaces. You'll also have access to University resources, such as our libraries, careers service and Students' Union.

5 Flexibility and choice

There are options to study full or part-time in many subjects. Some courses are delivered during the day and others in the evening, making it easy to fit study around your life.

6 An exciting career

A higher education qualification can mean better job prospects and rewarding careers. Many courses even include a work placement, which can look great on your CV. You can also take part in our unique Grad Edge Award, which helps develop your employability skills. Read more on page 11.

OUR PARTNER COLLEGES

The College Merthyr Tydfil

The College Merthyr Tydfil offers a comprehensive range of university-level qualifications from HNDs to Foundation Degrees. There are a range of subject areas to choose from including creative industries, business, computing and IT, care and sport. Over 400 higher education students study at the fantastic facilities each year, with excellent success rates. The facilities, along with high-quality teaching and learning, and excellent student support, ensures all learners achieve their maximum potential.

Bridgend College

The College is committed to higher education. Whether students want to study full or part-time, the College has a dedicated team who offer advice and support throughout the academic year. The College has over 750 students studying higher education courses in partnership with USW, with more than 350 graduating each year. Subject areas include Care, Childhood Studies and Education, Construction, Engineering and Science, Business and IT, Creative Arts, Land-based Studies, and Public Services.

Cardiff and Vale College

Cardiff and Vale College is one of the largest in the country, with more than 20,000 learners studying at the College each year. There is a range of higher education qualifications offered in partnership with the University of South Wales. The College boasts world-class facilities, including the new £45million City Centre Campus in the heart of Cardiff. This landmark campus is conveniently located just a five minute walk from Cardiff Central station with the majority of the College's university-level courses delivered there.

Coleg y Cymoedd

Coleg y Cymoedd offers a range of higher education courses across campuses in Nantgarw, Rhondda, Ystrad Mynach and the new campus in Aberdare. Students can choose from a range of higher education courses, from HNCs and HNDs to Foundation Degrees and Honours degrees in a variety of areas. These include business, creative production arts, costume construction for screen and stage, early years care and education, rugby coaching and development, graphic communication, and information communication technology. The College benefits from excellent teaching and diverse learning programmes and has flexible study with full and part-time learning available.

Coleg Gwent

Coleg Gwent is one of Wales' top performing colleges. It has over 800 university-level students on a range of higher education courses across five campuses, making university study accessible for all across Gwent and beyond. The College has impressive links with employers and local businesses. There are around 750 University of South Wales students studying higher education courses at the College.

The University of South Wales

The University of South Wales is one of the largest universities in the UK, offering students excellent opportunities and prospects. With campuses in Pontypridd, Cardiff and Newport, you can enjoy all that South Wales has to offer – city life and culture, stunning beaches and breath-taking countryside. Find out more about the University at: www.southwales.ac.uk

STUDENT LIFE

Support

If you choose to study with us, you could benefit from the impressive facilities and resources at the University of South Wales as well as at your local college. There's also academic, personal and professional support available from our college partners and the University. This support and guidance ranges from disability and dyslexia support, to learning support, employability, and health and wellbeing. Many services can be accessed at the college where you're studying, or you can contact student services at the University of South Wales for advice. Visit: www.southwales.ac.uk/advicecentres

University services

As a University of South Wales student, you can access the online library and learning resources, and even become a member of the Students' Union. You will have a University Link Officer and have access to talks and advice from University progression assistants. There will also be plenty of careers support and guidance from your college and the University. Read more about career support on the page opposite.

USW Sport

Even though you will study at your local college, you can still play for the University's sports teams in the British Universities and Colleges Sport (BUCS) league competitions. There are 48 teams to choose from, including football, rugby, netball, tennis, swimming, golf, snow-sports and more. You will join the club and train and play from Pontypridd Campus, Treforest. To qualify you will need to be 18 and studying at least 60 credits per year.

Welsh language

There are opportunities for students to practise, improve and use their Welsh skills while studying. Colleges often have bilingual or Welsh-medium activities, or you could join a Welsh club. You could study Welsh as a second language at a partner college, or at the University's Welsh for Adults centre. If you'd like to submit work through the medium of Welsh, a relevant lecturer will be identified where possible who will mark and assess your work, or arrangements can be made for your work to be translated into English. You may also want to consider a Welsh-medium placement for any work experience element of your course.

YOUR CAREER

Choosing to study a university course is an investment in your future. It can improve your career prospects, and for some jobs, it's an essential requirement. We want to help you succeed and achieve your full potential.

Our courses are designed in conjunction with employers. We believe work experience is invaluable, which is why our Foundation Degrees have work placement opportunities built in to them. This allows you to put theory into practice and looks great on your CV.

Employability

When you start one of our courses, there's plenty of careers help and guidance available, including:

- Guidance on CVs and job applications
- Help with interview preparation
- Advice on career choices or further study
- Work experience tips
- Support with job hunting
- Information on working and studying overseas
- Careers fairs, events and workshops

Grad Edge Award

This award is your chance to be recognised for developing the skills or attributes employers value when they search for graduate recruits. Getting involved during your studies will help give you a competitive edge and stand out from the crowd when you start job hunting. Visit: www.southwales.ac.uk/gradededge

Graduation

When you've successfully completed your Foundation Degree, HNC, HND, Cert HE or Honours degree, you can attend a graduation ceremony. Students who study at Cardiff and Vale College, Coleg y Cymoedd, Coleg Gwent or The College Merthyr Tydfil are invited to a graduation ceremony at the University of South Wales. Those who study at Bridgend College will be invited to a ceremony hosted by the College.

WHAT OUR STUDENTS SAY

IAN HOPKINS

"While I was studying for my level three qualification, our group had a talk about the HE courses available to study at the college. I did some further research and the course was just perfect for me and fitted my needs. The fact that I was able to stay local had many benefits. The college was easily accessible, just a bus ride away and as I continued to live at home with my parents, it worked out that I was saving quite a bit on accommodation fees too.

The work experience was invaluable to me as while I was studying, I wasn't just getting the academic knowledge but also the practical side. My family were a huge inspiration as both my mother and grandfather had obtained university qualifications so it is always something I wanted to pursue."

Ian Hopkins, Foundation Degree Information Communication Technology at Coleg y Cymoedd

ROSS PANFILI

"I've always wanted to go to university but looking back now, when all my friends went and I didn't it was because I was too immature. But since then I've grown up – I've worked in various jobs to earn money to go travelling and 6 months later I'm on my way to getting a university qualification.

As the classes are small, not only do you get lots of support from the lecturer, but you get your voice heard too. I'm considering training to be a teacher after the course but I'm not entirely sure; the breadth of it means I don't have to decide right now, so I'm getting a university qualification without narrowing my options too much."

Ross Panfili, Foundation Degree English and History at Coleg Gwent

HANNAH MORENO

"I left school when I was 16 and went to Cardiff and Vale College to do Performing Arts, which I loved. I've always been really interested in Drama as a career so a BTEC course was perfect for me.

I've always wanted to go in to teaching, and I knew I wanted to learn as much as I possibly could myself first, and then go on to gain my teaching qualification. I'm really hoping to top-up my foundation degree to the full Honours degree and then do a PGCE. I wasn't confident enough to consider the leap to university, but finding out I could still achieve my ambitions without putting myself under immense pressure was a lovely surprise!"

Hannah Moreno, Foundation Degree Performing Arts at Cardiff and Vale College

RYAN DAVIES

"For six years I spent four months of every year in Maryland, USA, working at a Summer Sports Camp for young people with disabilities. I decided to return to education after a few years working as a personal trainer because I want to go as far as possible in this field, and a degree will only help me in that ambition.

Initially, I didn't have the UCAS points for the courses I wanted to do, until I discovered the alternative route through the college, and they took my industry experience in to account. The college timetabling also meant I could work part-time, and there was still the option to top-up to the full degree in the last year, so I'd be just as qualified as if I went straight to university."

Ryan Davies, Foundation Degree at The College Merthyr Tydfil and BSc (Hons) Sports and Exercise Science at the University of South Wales

STUDENT FINANCE

A higher education course is an investment in your future. There are costs associated with learning, whether it's the time you invest or the tuition fees for your course. Financial assistance is available for higher education students, so studying may be more affordable than you first thought. Depending on your personal circumstances, you could be eligible for a range of grants, loans and allowances to help with tuition fees and living costs.

Course fees

For 2018-19, the University will charge £9,000 per year for full-time Honours degrees, Foundation Year and CerTHE courses taught at USW campuses.

Students on a full-time Foundation Degree or HND taught at our partner colleges will be charged £7,500 per year.

At the time of print, student financial support in Wales has not been confirmed for 2018 entry. Before you apply, we recommend you check our website for the latest information on fees and student support. Visit: www.southwales.ac.uk/money

Financial support is available via Student Finance Wales. Student finance information, along with how to apply and eligibility checkers, are available online at: www.studentfinancewales.co.uk.

Additional help

Once you've completed your University course at your local college, you may decide to top-up to a full-time Honours degree at one of the University's campuses. If you do, you may be eligible for further financial support through Student Finance Wales, as well as a bursary. This Progression Bursary can help towards your travel, living and study costs. For up-to-date information and terms and conditions, visit: www.southwales.ac.uk/progression-bursary

Additional costs

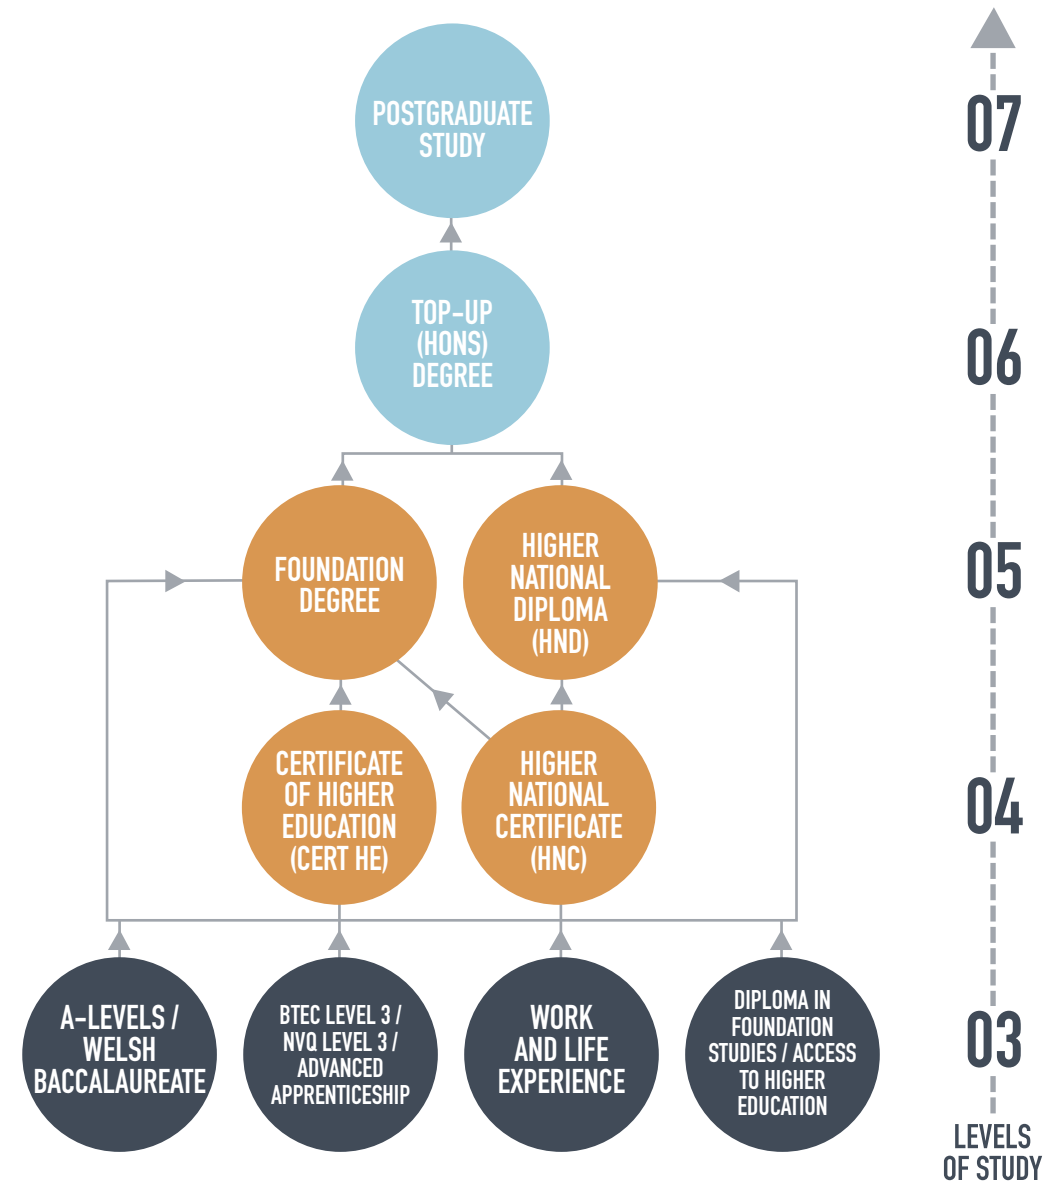

As well as paying for books and electronic essentials, there may be additional costs for some courses. This could include field trips, art supplies or studio time. Be sure to ask about these costs at an Open Event.

You could be eligible for GRANTS, LOANS AND ALLOWANCES to help you with tuition fees and living costs

WHERE NEXT?

We offer university courses at our partner colleges starting at Level 4, with opportunities to progress to Honours degrees and postgraduate study at the University of South Wales. We consider all applications individually, so if you don't have the necessary qualifications, we look at your work and life experience too.

LEVELS OF STUDY

WHERE NEXT?

Each of our HND and foundation degree programmes has at least one guaranteed progression route to allow you to top-up your qualification to a full Honours degree within your chosen field.

To achieve an Honours degree you'll study a total of 360 credits typically over 3 years full-time. To top-up your HND or foundation degree to a BA (Hons) or BSc (Hons) this will normally involve an extra year studying 120 credits full-time (or the part-time equivalent). You'll usually need to attend a University of South Wales campus for level 6 study although selected top-up courses are available at our partner colleges. Top-up routes vary from course to course. To find out your options, contact the University of South Wales Collaboration, Recruitment and Progression Assistant for your college, whose contact details can be found on page 5.

Upon completion of your HND, foundation degree or Honours degree you'll be able to attend a graduation ceremony. For graduation details please see page 11.

Your relationship with the University doesn't have to end when you finish your degree. There are many postgraduate and professional courses that will help you progress in your chosen profession. There are also opportunities to progress at your college too, with PgCE/PcET teaching qualifications available at each college.

PROGRESS
WITHIN YOUR CHOSEN FIELD

Chris studied the Foundation Degree Film at Bridgend College and graduated this year with BA (Hons) Film and Video from the University of South Wales' Cardiff Campus.

CHRIS LLOYD

"I'm originally from Maesteg which is near Bridgend and two years ago I returned to full-time higher education, studying the Foundation Degree Film course at Bridgend College.

I had left school after studying A-levels in History, English and RE, and spent the next nine years working in offices and the retail sector. Making my own independent films is what I really enjoyed and despite working full-time to help fund projects and trying to make a career for myself, I discovered I could only progress so far. I was left disappointed when an American company had seen my work online and wanted to offer me an internship but as I didn't have any formal qualifications I was unable to progress.

I had previously thought university wasn't for me, but after seeing my younger brother and girlfriend studying towards university qualifications, I felt inspired to move in that direction and find a course that would help refine my skills to industry-standard.

At first it didn't occur to me that I could study a University course at my local college. After research I found the perfect course which would help me achieve my career aspirations. I successfully applied and enrolled at Bridgend College.

I had always wanted to study for the full degree and after I had completed the foundation degree I applied for the BA (Hons) top-up in Film and Video at the University of South Wales, Cardiff Campus.

I'm really hoping I can secure an internship or become a documentary film maker or self-shooter now that I have the qualifications. Like anything, the more you put in, the more you get out. I feel really grateful to be on the course and to be able to do what I enjoy."

APPLY

Entry requirements

Applications to all courses in this guide will be considered on an individual basis. Typical entry requirements are detailed below, but if you don't meet the criteria then your work and life experience can be taken into consideration.

Combinations of the qualifications below are acceptable and other qualifications not listed may also be accepted, such as NVQ Level 3, CACHE Diploma, NNEB, or OCN and OCR Level 3.

If you're not sure if you meet the entry requirements, please contact your chosen college. Typical entry requirements for HNCs, HNDs and foundation degrees:

- A relevant BTEC Level 3 profile of Merit/Pass or Pass/Pass/Pass; or
- DD at A-level; or
- DE at A-level plus C in Welsh Baccalaureate; or
- Access to HE where you have achieved a Pass Diploma with 45 Level 3 credits (all passes).

Additionally you will need GCSE passes at grade C or above in three subjects to include Mathematics and English Language (or equivalent).

If you decide to progress to a BA (Hons) or BSc (Hons) top-up course, you would usually need to pass an HND or foundation degree in the same or related subject.

For all partner college courses:

- You may be required to undertake a test in literacy, numeracy and/or science
- For certain courses an enhanced Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) check will be required (additional costs apply)
- Some professions will require a GCSE grade B in certain subjects
- Any additional criteria are listed on individual course pages on partner college websites.

Mature students with relevant industry experience who do not meet the academic qualifications will be considered on an individual basis.

How to apply

Please check the application preference with your local college. You may be asked to apply via UCAS www.ucas.com. Some colleges will process direct applications that are made in person or online.

For further information and advice on how to apply, please contact your chosen college directly. Contact details can be found on page 2.

GLOSSARY

To help you understand some of the terms in this brochure, here's what they mean:

Foundation Degree

This is a qualification in its own right and you will attend a graduation ceremony after completion. It provides you with skills relevant to industry. Study is combined with employment-based learning, so you learn in the workplace as well as the classroom. On successful completion you will have the option to progress to a top-up qualification.

Higher National Certificate (HNC) and Higher National Diploma (HND)

These work-related qualifications give you the skills to do a particular job. They are vocational, so are appealing to employers, and can count towards membership of professional bodies. They can lead you straight into a career, or you can progress to a Foundation Degree or Honours degree.

Higher Education (HE)

This is education for students over 18, who have completed further education (college or sixth form). Institutions such as universities and colleges provide higher education programmes.

Top-up degree

This is usually one extra year of full-time study or two years part-time. You would top-up from a Foundation Degree or equivalent, to a full Honours degree. Top-up courses are usually studied in the same or related subject as the Foundation Degree.

Honours degree

A course studied at university or a further education college. A full-time BA or BSc Honours degree will normally last three years and you'll study 360 credits.

UCAS

The abbreviated term for the Universities and Colleges Admissions Service. UCAS process applications to UK universities and colleges for undergraduate courses. Some of our partner colleges don't use UCAS and accept direct applications instead – contact the college directly for details.

Student Finance Wales

This is the funding body who assess you for financial support.

Tuition fees

These fees cover the cost of your study, and may vary depending on what and where you study. All eligible students can apply for a Tuition Fee Loan, and will not pay this back until they are earning over a certain amount.

Bursary

Money provided towards the cost of studying that does not need to be paid back.
